ONCE LIVED HERE

Widow of Late Robert Slaughter Dies in Nashville.

Mrs. Mollie Slaughter, widow of Robert Slaughter, formerly of this city, died in Nashville Tuesday. The remains will arrive here at 11:20 this morning over the Tennessee Central and the burial will take place from the train, at Riverside cemetery. Services will be conducted at the grave by Rev. C. M. Thompson.

The deceased was about 70 years old and is survived by two children, C. C. Slaughter, a prominent Nashville attorney, with whom she had made her home for several years, and Miss Bobbie Hurt, also of Nashville.

Mrs. Slaughter was a member of the Baptist church. The family resided in Hopkinsville many years ago. After the death of Mr. Slaughter she took up her residence in Nashville.

AGED RECLUSE

Dead at Great Age Near Crofton Tuesday.

Aunt Polly Monk probably the oldest woman in the county, died Tuesday, near Crofton. She was a native of the county and very eccentric. She had lived within two miles of the town of Crofton all her life, but had never been inside its limits.

A railroad ran through an adjoining farm, but she had never looked upon a railroad train of any description. Her sister lived within a quarter of a mile of her, but during the past twenty-five years Aunt Polly had visited her only one time and then for only one day. Her death was due to infirmities.

"Had dyspepsia or indigestion for years. No appetite, and what I did eat distressed me terribly. Burdock Blood Bitters cured me."—J. H. Walker, Sunbury, Ohio.

PLANS FOR NEW HOME

Will be Submitted to Special Meeting To-morrow Night.

NEW SIGHT FAVORED

As Old Lot is Too Small for The Building Wanted.

A special meeting of the Elks will be held at the Odd Fellows Hall to-morrow night at 7:30 and business of the greatest importance will come up. The Building Committee to whom was referred the matter of preparing plans for the building on the old site, will report that the lot is too small and will submit plans drawn by Shopbell & Co., of Evansville, for a Home 60 by 100 feet, three stories high, together with a proposition that provides for the exchange of the old lot for the Gish property, fronting 93 feet on Ninth street, corner of Water. The report of the Committee will be unanimous. The difference will be $3,500 in cash between the two sites, in favor of the new and larger one. The proposed plans are for a Home on the ground floor, lodging apartments on the second and a part of the third and a lodge room on the third floor. There will be 16 rooms for bed rooms and the arrangements of the whole building will be ideal. A broad piazza in front will be a principal feature.

Every member who can attend is urged to do so.

GOOD RAINS

Have Made Glad the Hearts of Farmers.

Hopkinsville had a good rain Monday and another light shower Tuesday at noon. Local showers, have fallen pretty generally over the county and the farming situation has been greatly improved. Conditions were getting deplorable, but the farmers are now wearing broad smiles.

MAKING UP THE TICKET

To Meet the Defeat at The Polls in the November Election.

O'REAR THE WHOLE THING

Bradley Temporary Chairman And Showed His Temper Early.

Louisville, Ky., July 12.—Senator Bradley, chairman of the republican convention, became offended because the Louisville delegation refused to keep quiet when ordered, and at 9:45 o'clock adjourned last night's session off hand to 9 o'clock this morning.

O'Rear's nomination on the first ballot was made today. Bristow, of Georgetown, is said to be his choice for Lieut. Gov.

It is reported among delegates that the credentials committee is splitting delegations in all contests, giving each faction half a representation.

Night Riders Control.

Gov. Wilson's attitude in the "night rider" troubles will not be indorsed by the State Republican convention, provided the majority report of the Resolutions Committee is concurred in to-day. Throughout all of yesterday afternoon and last night members of the committee wrangled over the proposition. When a vote was finally taken late last night it was 7 to 6 against indorsement, the O'Rear men carry their point.

VICTIM OF HEAT.

Prostration is Able to Be Up Again.

Gus Buie, who was overcome by heat about ten days ago, is able to be up and was in the city for a short while yesterday. He is still quite unwell, however, and is suffering very much from pains in his head.

Mr. Buie resides a few miles west of the city and was prostrated by intense heat July 2, while returning home from church in this city.

UNCLE SAM POOR EMPLOYER

Public Officials Receive Small Pay in Comparison With Employees of Big Corporations.

The American people are extremely generous employers when the compensation of an expert organizer, or administrator of a great money-earning enterprise is to be decided; but they are exceedingly niggardly employers when the matter of conducting the affairs of their own government officers is involved. A salary of $50,000 is promptly voted by the directors and stockholders of an important bank or railroad, and so long as the man who receives it organizes, extends and administers the property successfully and meets dividends and surplus requirements, there is no breath of complaint or criticism. It is, in short, only necessary to "make good." In the government service, on the contrary, except a few men in the customs service, but three administrative officials below the rank of cabinet officer receive a salary as high as $8,000. Including the customs service, there are less than two hundred permanent administrative positions under the government which carry a salary of over $80 per week. Of course it cannot be expected that the great administrators of banks and manufacturing and public-service corporations will give favorable consideration to federal positions of uncertain tenure, carrying compensation scarcely more than family pin money.—William S. Rossiter, in the Atlantic.

DIET FOR WARM WEATHER.

Red meats may be omitted for a fortnight if there is a tendency to skin eruptions. Lamb, fish and chicken, raw eggs and buttermilk make a nourishing spring diet when combined with fresh vegetables, oranges and grape fruit and light salad.
Do not overdo physically. Get a change of air for even a few days; if not, do not fight languor to the point of not resting. Lie down in the day and go to bed earlier.
Have plenty of fresh air in your rooms, let the sunlight flood them and sit outdoors. Don't stop exercising. Take brisk walks and rest afterward.

CARRYING HIS FLY PAPER.

A seat near the radiator was the only one vacant in the waiting room of the Union depot when an old man came in carrying several packages. He laid all his bundles beside the seat, then he picked up one, a long, square package, and looked about in perplexity.

"I don't dare get this near those steam pipes," he explained to the usher. "You see, it's fly paper, and the directions say to keep in a cool place."

"I got it to take with me to Mexico. I wasn't sure I could get any there, and I wanted to be prepared. Flies bother me and I like to swat my share of them."

Who Was There That You Knew?

IN the shadowy ranks of those who marched to defeat or death or victory fifty years ago in the mighty conflict that convulsed this great nation, is there father or grandfather or uncle of yours? Would you like to see a photograph of him in that long ago day of his youth—a photograph that he never knew was taken? Perhaps we can show you one; and in any case, we can tell you a story, stranger than any detective fiction, of 3,500 priceless photographs that were lost and are found again.

3,500 Long Buried Photographs of the Civil War

THEY were taken by the greatest photographer in the United States of that day; they were bought by the United States Government for $50,000; they were buried in the War Department for 50 years—they are buried there still. But a duplicate set was kept by the photographer—who died poor and broken down; that duplicate set was knocked from pillar to post for nearly 50 years, until it was discovered by a New England collector. J. Pierpont Morgan tried to secure the collection—Ex-President Garfield and General Benjamin F. Butler said it was worth $150,000—yet with the help of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS, the entire collection has been gathered into 10 great volumes and is placed within your reach at less than the value of one of the photographs. It is the one accurate, impartial history of the Civil War—for the camera cannot lie. It tells the story of the War you never heard before. Taken under protection of the Secret Service, these photographs bring to light thousands of little-known phases of the war; they penetrate to strange places and record strange things.

PATHETIC LETTER OF POE

Reproduction for Insubriety Was Source of Much Pain to Great Poet.

An ancient controversy, to which no little interest is still attached, both on account of sentiment and of curiosity, has been revived through the publication of one of Edgar Allen Poe's autograph letters, recently disposed of at the sale of the Poe literary collection. In this letter Poe says of himself:

"The fact is that my habits are abetentious and omit nothing for health. I rise early, eat moderately, drink nothing but water, and take abundant and regular exercise in the open air. But this is my private life, and, of course, escapes the eye of the world. The desire for society comes on me only when I have become excited by drink. Then only I go—that is, at these times only, I have been in the practice of going among my friends, who seldom or, in fact, never, have seen me, unless excited, take it for granted that I am always so. Those that really know me know better."

There is something pathetic in this appeal for kindly judgment to a group of witnesses so restricted as to eliminate those whom he calls his friends! It leaves virtually but two, his delicate young wife and her mother, and it may be well to remember that these two in their testimony to the unhappy genius confirm his statements to the smallest detail.

IRREVERENT YOUTH

"Why, my boy, did you fall in at open coal hole?"
"Naw; 'course not. I wuz in here an' dey built a pavement over me."

LISTON'S TRIUMPH.

The description of the first operation under ether in Europe is given by Dr. F. William Cook in the University College Hospital Magazine, and the scene is referred to as the "most dramatic ever enacted in which medical men grouped the stage." The operation was performed by Robert Liston, December 21, 1846. "At 2:15 Liston enters; that magnificent figure of a man, 6 feet 2 inches in height, and says, 'We are going to try a Yankee dodge today, gentlemen, for making men insensible'—so Liston introduced ether to a London hospital." The subject was a man 36 years old, whose thigh was amputated. The operation was successful and Liston uttered the epilogue: "This Yankee dodge, gentlemen, beats mesmerism all holler."

WHERE ELOQUENCE ABIDES.

True eloquence, indeed, does not consist in speech. It cannot be brought from far. Labor and learning may toil for it, but they will toil in vain. Words and phrases may be marshaled in every way, but they cannot compass it. It must consist in the man, in the subject, and in the occasion. Affected passion, intense expression, the pomp of declamation, all may aspire to it; they cannot reach it. It comes, if it comes at all, like the outbursting of a fountain from the earth or the bursting of volcanic fires, with spontaneous, original native force.—Daniel Webster: Discourse, Faneuil Hall, Boston, August 2, 1826.

INTERESTED.

"I presume there is a disgusting scandal, as usual?"
"Oh, yes."
"What is the world coming to? Ahem! Please read me the particulars."

HIS MOUNTAINS, HIS WYOMING

Story of a Little Boy and a Color Print at the Public Library.

He sat in the children's room of the public library yesterday poring over a huge book of Indian stories. He was twelve years old—the age, an observer fancied, when stories of blood and escape have the greatest appeal. But in the case of this particular boy the observer soon found that he was wrong, for in twenty minutes the boy had not turned a page. He sat staring down upon that one page—gloating over it, caressing it with his eyes.

The observer stepped closer—the boy was studying a color plate, the frontispiece of the book. The picture showed a barren plain. In the distance was the dim outline of snow-covered mountains. The picture was real—it seemed to breathe of sage brush and alkali.

The boy looked up. "Ain't it great?" he said. "The mountains is lots farther away than they look."

He looked down at the plate again, and then said without raising his eyes: "I was born on a place like that, out in Wyoming. The folks an' me come away las' year. When I get to be a man," he finished with a sudden determination in his voice, "I'm goin' back there—and have a ranch."

WREN GUARDS HIS HOME.

In Central America there is a wise little bird not any bigger than a canary, that makes a great effort to protect its nest from thieves, says the Century Path. It builds in a tree which has branches very close together and sets the nest on a firm place made by fastening the branches together with sticks and strings. Then it builds a covered entrance to the nest along this woven pavement and all along this, as well as on the nest, it places thorns, so that it is just as if the place were guarded by tiny barbed wire fences. There is even a door to the nest, which is closed when the baby birds are left alone, and more thorns are put up at that time as if to make certain that no one shall be able to steal the birdlings.

THE SELFISH GRADUATE.

Dr. Archibald Henderson, the brilliant author of the new life of Bernard Shaw, was talking about vegetarianism at a dinner in Hillsboro.

"Youth, with all its shining and splendid virtues, is selfish. Youth is especially selfish in its attitude toward father and mother. I once knew a youth whose father said to him on commencement day:

"Well, my dear boy, today you push forth into the world. You leave no debts behind in this quaint and delightful college town, I trust?"

"None, father," was the reply—"none but what, with diligence, perseverance and self-denial, you will be able to repay."

HIS FINISH.

"I've been warning Clara Skeggs about allowing her husband to play so much baseball. Now it's made her a widow." "What are you talking about? Nothing's the matter with Skeggs." "I tell you it's finished him. I saw myself in the paper where Bill Skeggs was playing a game and died on the base."—Baltimore American.

WHEN ANNE BOLEYN DRIVES

Famous Apparition, Without Heads, on the Anniversary of the English Queen's Execution.

"Headless coaches" are fairly numerous. The most famous is the one that drives once a year, on the anniversary of Anne Boleyn's execution, up the avenue at Blickling, her Norfolk home, says the London Chronicle. The coachman and the four horses have not a head between them and Anne's own is not upon her shoulders, but she holds it in her lap as she sits in the coach all in white. At the hall door the whole apparition vanishes. Anne's father Sir Thomas, also rides in a coach drawn by headless horses once a year and his ride is much more exciting than his daughter's. He has to cross forty county bridges during the night and a company of yelling demons pursue the coach to keep the horses going. But how do the horses hear the noise if they have no ears?

HERE'S A FREE TRANSLATION

How a Familiar English Hymn Was Turned Into the South African Vernacular.

The difficulties of true translation are enormous, says a European letter to the New York Sun. This fact has been recently discovered again by some South American missionaries who have had some favorite English hymns translated into the vernacular for the benefit of their native converts.

Months after they had been exhorting their congregations to join heartily in the singing they found out that their translator had been particularly free. One of the finest examples of this was his version of the well-known hymn which opens with the line, "Lord dismiss us with thy blessing." This was rendered, "Lord, kick us out, softly, softly."

FLYER'S FIRST LESSON.

The aviator's first lesson is to learn to steer his airship in a perfectly straight line for a distance of a mile or over. This looks very easy until you discover that an ordinary aeroplane possesses the perversity common to all inanimate objects. It always wants to go the other way, instead of the straight way that you seek to direct. Your first dash across the field and back takes two minutes, if no mishap occurs. After two dashes of this description a discreet teacher will dismiss you for the day. You have had all that your nerves ought to be asked to stand. In the best schools of France—a land famous for its aviators—no pupil, however apt, is permitted to have a longer daily lesson than five minutes at the outset of his course; and Monsieur Houpert, who is a graduate of a leading French school of aviation, follows this plan.—Harriet Quimby, in Leslie's.

GRADUATES' REVISION.

"These young college A.B.'s think they know everything."

The speaker was Hilary K. Adair, the western detective. Mr. Adair, seated in a San Francisco restaurant, resumed:

"A Leland Stanford boy, just about to graduate, took me to task the other day about a bank robbery. He showed me where my reasoning had been wrong.

"But you'll do better," he ended. "Don't lose heart. One is never too old to learn."

"Oh, you sweet girl and boy graduates have revised that proverb," I sneered. "It reads now: One is never too young to teach."

RAVAGES OF RACE SUICIDE.

H. G. Wells, on his visit to America, said that race suicide was too far advanced to be eradicated save by the endowment of motherhood.

"When I look at race suicide," Mr. Wells declared to a Boston reporter, "and when I listen to Mr. Roosevelt's hopeful railings against it, I think of my garden at Sandgate.

"Herb," said my wife one spring day, "I wish you'd go weed out the flower bed."

"I went immediately. But I soon returned.

"My dear," I said, "it would be easier to flower out the weed bed."

AND HE EARNED HIS FEE

Wealthy Lady Has Profitable Account With Doctor Who Was Meddled in Matter of Fee.

An interesting story is related in Our Dumb Animals of a San Francisco woman and her physician. The doctor performed an operation very successfully upon a wealthy woman. When asked for his bill the physician presented one for $50. The good lady smiled.

"Do you consider that a sufficient charge, doctor," she asked, "considering my circumstances?"

"That is my charge for the operation; your circumstances have nothing to do with it."

The lady drew a check for $500 and presented it to him. He handed it back, saying, "I cannot accept this. My charge for that operation is $50."

"Very well," the lady replied, "keep the check and put the balance to my credit."

Some months after she received a long itemized bill, upon which were entered charges of various kinds, rendered to all sorts of humanity, male and female, black and white, who had been treated at her expense. She was so delighted at it that she immediately placed another check for $500 to his credit on the same terms and it is now being earned in the same way.

ROBS SEA OF GREAT TERROR

New Non-Rolling Steamship, It is Claimed, Will Banish Seasickness.

Man is taking from the seas many of its terrors. The latest achievement reported in that direction is the non-rolling steamship—an accomplishment which would banish seasickness. The publicity department of one of the important transoceanic companies sends out word that the non-rolling boat is now a reality and that a system of rolling tanks solve the problem of centuries. Some large steamers equipped with these tanks have proved, it is said, the effectiveness of the device, the lateral motion of ships, which was from eight to fourteen per cent. having been reduced to three per cent. It is the promise that the tank system of maintaining an even keel will soon be installed on the largest ships afloat. The explanation of the system is that the tanks are "U" shaped and filled with water, which is contrived to roll in an opposite direction to the movement of the sea, thus counterbalancing the sea wave effect.

THE KING'S WAY.

It was characteristic of Edward VII. that he never showed too much or too little courtesy, but just enough to maintain his reputation of being the most gracious gentleman of Europe. Some years ago, according to the author of "The People's King," his majesty visited Aberdeen, and knighted the lord provost.

At the luncheon which followed the king sat next to Mrs. Lyon, the wife of the lord provost, and noticed on the table the card denoting her place.

"I must alter this," the king said, smiling on the lady.

With his pencil he effaced the word Mrs. and in its place substituted Lady and graciously handed the card to her newly made ladyship.—Youth's Companion.

ENGLISH COURTESY.

Here is a little experience from Price Collier's "England and the English." It tells of the author's securing some reserved seats to an entertainment, over in that country: "My daughter and I walked round to the entrance to the reserved seats stand. I asked for two seats. 'Where would you like them, sir?' asked the attendant. He saw that I hesitated, and said: 'Go in and see where you would like to sit, come back and tell me the numbers of the seats you have chosen and I will give them to you.' I accordingly went in and chose my seats and walked back and received and paid for my tickets."

THE LONG-SUFFERING AUTO BE NOT DETERRED BY ENVY

What Happens to Machine When it Falls Into Hands of a Greenhorn.

With the greenhorn the automobile is long suffering. There was a new owner who took his family out for a first ride one day last August. In going down a hill on which the clay was slippery from recent rain it became necessary to turn out for a car coming up.

The new driver made the turn so successfully that he turned clear over the edge of the embankment.
Having nothing but air to support it, the auto turned completely over without spilling a passenger and landed right side up and on an even keel in a marsh 15 feet below. It was necessary to get a team to pull the car out of the mud, but once on the solid road the new owner simply cranked 'er up and went on his way rejoicing.

Another new owner could not find the key to fasten one rear wheel on the axle when he unloaded his auto from the car in which it had been shipped from the factory. Nevertheless he started up the motor according to directions and traveled 12 miles with one wheel driving. By this time the outraged motor was red hot. Whereupon the owner stopped at a farmhouse and dashed several buckets of cold water on it. Then plugged around the country a week or so before he decided to go to the agent to lodge a complaint that his darned car didn't "pull" well—From an article in Outing Magazine.

She—Is he wedded to his art?
He—Yes; but I think the marriage is a failure.

GHIBERTI'S DOORS.

The world-renowned doors of the Baptistry at Florence represent nearly the entire life work of Ghiberti.
He began the first pair when he was twenty-three years old, and when he finished the second pair he was seventy-three. Excepting the three statues outside of San Michele and one or two minor works, these two pairs of bronze doors represent his labors for half a century. These doors, declared by Michael Angelo
"fit to be the gates of paradise," represent the Book of Genesis, in all the depths of its meaning, and the skill of the artist has never been over-praised. It is impossible to exaggerate the glory of the work, and if one has the time and money the sight of these wonderful doors is well worth the trip to Florence.

ROBIN SHOWS GRATITUDE.

A grateful robin awakens George Washington Da Cunha every morning by singing his praises at his bedroom window.

The redbreast migrated last autumn, but Da Cunha recognized it instantly when it reappeared recently, for one of the bird's legs is shorter than the other and the robin lists to starboard when it hops.

When the robin's leg was broken last summer Da Cunha took in the bird, put the fractured leg in tiny splints and tended his patient until the delicate bones set, though not perfectly. Now the robin, with swelling throat, gladly pours forth a glee in daily installments.

Mather Tells His Readers This Should Not Keep Them From Acquiring Merit.

You have read who suffered the ostracism at Athens, and what a petty reason the country fellow offered why he gave his voice for the banishment of Aristides, "because he was everywhere always called the just;" and for what reason the Ephori laid a fine on Agesilaus, "because he possessed above all men the heart of the Lacedaemonians."

You have read the reason why the Ephesians expelled the best of their citizens—"Nemo de nobis unus excellat, sed si quis exierit, alio in loco et apud alios sit;" "If any are determined to excel their neighbors, let them find another place to do it."

You have read that he who conquered Hannibal saw it necessary to retire from Rome, that the merit of others might be more noticed. My authors tell me that, "at all times nothing has been more dangerous among men than too illustrious a degree of merit." But, my readers, the terror of this envy must not intimidate you. I must press you to do good; and be so far from affrighted at it, you shall rather be generously delighted with the most envious deplumations.—Mather's "Essays to Do Good."

NO KEY FOR TIMMINS.

"The other night," remarked Mr.
Timmins, deferentially, after he had waited two hours for an opening,
"Brown was going home when he was shot at by a footpad."

"Well," said Mrs. Timmins, sternly, "would you expect him to be shot by a policeman or a clergyman?"
"No, my dear," said Mr. Tim-mins, "but he'd have been killed if the bullet hadn't struck a latch key in his vest pocket."

"Indeed," said Mrs. Timmins. "I happen to know that he is insured for £1,000, and if he hadn't had that key his wife would be a rich woman today. If you're hinting for a latch key, Timmins, you'll have to give me a better reason than that. Now, I'm going to bed, so if you want to read you'll have to sit by the kitchen fire; but don't you dare to light the gas!"

Then, with a sigh, he resumed the article he had been reading, "How to Manage a Wife."—Tit Bits.

TRAVEL VIA ROCKING CHAIR.

I am a rocking chair tourist, writes George Willoughby in the National Magazine. I'd rather read a good book on travel than to go myself. It doesn't take so much time, nor so much money, and if the truth be known, I haven't much of either.
It is surprising what a lot of traveling one can do much through books, and not miss a single day at the office. So let us understand one another in the beginning. There are some who go and some who stay behind, but all are tourists, whether the trip is made in a steamer chair or in the old side-arm rocker. I can't begin to tell you how many times I've crossed the ocean in the old chair, and never once have I been seasick. I have enjoyed "home cooking" en route and altogether have had a mighty fine time of it.

AMONG STRANGERS.

"It's a sad thing to be friendless and a stranger," said Mr. Chuggins.

HOW TO TREAT A FRIEND

He That Gives Friend Unnecessary Uneasiness Is Less Friend Than He Should Be.

Though a friend be but the duplicate of a man's self, yet there may often happen secrets to one that may not be convenient to divulge to the other. If they be such as the disclosure of them to a friend shall not only not benefit him, but shall bring grief upon him, I cannot think it an act of friendship to import them. He that gives his friends uneasiness when he needs not his enemy, or, at least, is less his friend than he might be. But if in some things he be reserved, I shall suppose it is for his own safety, as well as my ease. I will be willing to know as far as he would have me; but I would not draw anything from him which he may not be ready to communicate. If he be one whom I value I ought not to wrong him so much as to wrest that from him that might cause him afterward to repent or fear. If he be not to be valued I will never engage myself so much as to be made conscious of his concealments.—Owen Feltham.

DUKE IS VERSATILE AUTHOR

Franz Ferdinand's Productions Range From Travel to Historical and Scientific Subjects.

The archduke Franz Ferdinand, who is reported to be suffering from melancholia, ranks among the most versatile of royal authors. He made his debut in literature nearly twenty years ago with a volume on his trip around the world. Like the German crown prince, he spent some time in India, and his travel book contains several hearty tributes to the hospitality of British officials. The archduke's next work was a monograph on Radetsky, which has run into several editions, and this was followed by two other works on historical subjects. He has also published two volumes of verse and he is credited with the authorship of a number of articles in technical publications on engineering and kindred subjects, in which he is keenly interested.

BALLAST FOR SALMON.

A fisherman who sold salmon at an Episcopal residence was unable to make any sales during a period of stormy weather. When at last she did get an opportunity, she endeavored to make up for lost sales by inserting into the intestines of the salmon she intended selling at the Episcopal household, as many small pebbles as she could. Her fraud was detected by the cook and communicated to his lordship. A few days later he met the fisherman at his gate.

"Go away," he said angrily, "I will buy no more salmon from you."

"Why, my lord?" she asked in apparent astonishment.

"You put beach pebbles into the last salmon you sold me."

"Ah, my lord," she explained, "don't you know that in stormy weather like this, the salmon must take in ballast?"

OLD BURMESE PAGODA.

At Bingu, on the right bank of the Irrawaddy river, about five miles from Mandalay, in Burma, there stands a peculiar pagoda known as the Wedding Cake pagoda. It was built in the early part of the nineteenth century and is in thoroughly good preservation, only a few of the images inside having been broken. The extreme height to the top of the minaret is 80 feet and the circumference about 600 feet. The pagoda stands back from the river some 300 feet, and is hidden from it by a grove of teak trees. Close to it is the famous Mingan bell.—Wide World.

SHELL TELLS THE AGE.

Oysters grow only during the summer and especially during the long, warm summers at that, and are scarcely big enough for the mouth before the third year. It is easy looking over a bunch of shells to tell how old an oyster is. A summer hump and the winter sink come across the shell every year, but after the seventh or tenth year full growth comes; then, by looking at the sinks between the humps it is hard to tell anything more about Miss Oyster's age. Oysters live to be twenty years old.

WHAT DID HE MEAN?

Mrs. Blenkinsop—Poor man! Perhaps you have seen better days? Tramp—Yes, indeed, lady. I never tasted such soup as yours before.

RUBBING IT IN ON HORSE

City Salesman Objects to Placing Horseshoes Over the Doors of Garages.

"I do not own a garage," the city salesman said. "I do not even own a machine to put into a garage, consequently I have nothing authoritative to say about their management; but if my voice did carry any weight I would insist that the good-luck horseshoes over garage doors be taken down. In the capacity of inquisitor I have gone into dozens of garages lately and nearly everywhere I have seen a horseshoe above the door. Maybe the proprietors might have found some good-luck emblem more inappropriate, but I doubt it. Cannot the geniuses who turn out improved models of motor cars invent a suitable emblem of their own? After having done their best to exterminate the horse it looks like rubbing it in to use one of his shoes as an amulet. I am not familiar enough with the mechanism of a motor car to make a suggestion, but if I was running a garage I would hang a fire over the door if I could do no better. Anything but borrowing the horseshoe from the horse."

NO BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT

George in No Danger If He Should Take a Notion to Go Back on His Word.

His arm was about her waist, her hand was on his shoulder, and they were walking through the fields, as they were wont to do for nine long years.

"Em," said he, "we've been courtin' a tidy time now."

"Nine year come nex' August bank holiday, George."

"I told you, first start off, as how I shouldn't be in no hurry to git married, Em."

"You didn't tell no lie about it, neither, George," she declared, with a sigh.

"You're talkin' as if you was sorry that I'm a man o' my word, Em," he said reprovingly.

"Well, George," she replied, "now you mention it, I have been thinkin' this last year or two that if you could see your way to go back on your word just this once it wouldn't be amiss."—The Wasp.

GOAT'S COMMENT.

W. E. Telling's little daughter, Gwendolyn, has long wanted a goat. No one of the family knows why the child should have pined upon a goat as a desirable pet, but a wee Angora was found at last, gentle and broken to the requirements of a city home, and now Gwendolyn is supremely happy.

Playing with a neighbor's little boy, who was come to call upon her, she proudly recited the record of her family prosperity. "My father makes a thousand dollars a week," she said.

The little boy, not to be outdone, came back. "My father," he said, "makes a thousand dollars a day."

And the goat, lying under the table, said "Ba-a-h."—Cleveland Leader.

VALUABLE FIND.

Remarks a Paris correspondent: "The things that are lost and found in Paris would fill a volume. You may pick up a bomb in the street or find a small baby in a bandbox, as did a policeman recently at one of our big shops. A Miss Julia O'Connor found a more agreeable treasure trove in the guise of a coronet of pearls, which she incidentally picked up in the street. She took it at once to the police station and nearly fainted with surprise when she found that her honesty was to be rewarded to the tune of $200, the value of the coronet being 30,000 francs ($6,000)."

A SNAKE'S "LEAP."

Nor, again, Mr. Robinson points out, is it true that a snake ever "leaps" at its foe or prey. Except the cobra, no snake can raise more than a third of its length from the ground, though there are instances in which rattlesnakes, probably unconsciously, have gained an extra leverage from a wall of rock immediately behind them, and so struck further than the ordinary range.—London Spectator.

RESEMBLANCE.

"My doll was full of sawdust," said one little girl.

"Maybe it wasn't sawdust," replied the other. "Maybe it was breakfast food."

DOUBLE-HEADER TUESDAY.

Henderson Came Yesterday for First of Six Games to End Season.

The three games with Harrisburg Monday and Tuesday on the local grounds were all easy victories for the Moguls.

Monday's game was won by 5 to 0. Batteries, Yon and Huhn, Calbert and Overton. A second game was started but stopped in second inning 3 to 0 in favor of Hopkinsville, and played Tuesday. As a seven inning game it was won 7 to 4. Batteries Johnson and Huhn, Kilgore and Overton. The second game was won 6 to 5. Batteries, Beasley and Huhn, Beall, Taylor and Fish.

In the two games Tuesday all of the Moguls joined the slugging brigade. Keeling got a two-bagger, Ireland 2 singles, Lyons 2 singles and a 3-bagger, Nairn 3 two-baggers, a single and 2 walks, Jones a single, Summers a 2 bagger and 2 singles, Cooper a single and two sacrifices, Huhn 2 singles and Johnson and Beasley one each.

Monday's Game.

Cairo 9, Paducah 5.
Hopkinsville 5 Harrisburg 0.
Henderson 6, Clarksville 2.
Vincennes Fulton rain.

Clarksville is slumping again and is now a poor third.

Henderson lacks about $150 of having its money raised, but hasn't quit trying yet.

Nairn has recovered from his recent slump in batting and is hitting like a fiend.

Lyons stretched a two-bagger into a home run.

One of Nairn's long drives Tuesday almost parked the ball. It hit the fence near the top and bounced back.

Little Reiser, of unsavory umpire fame, who is managing Harrisburg from the bench, was so officious that he had to be quieted with a fine. Dressed in an imitation of the Mogul blue uniform he paraded in front of the grand stand and made a general nuisance of himself.

President Gosnell has ruled that the season end July 18. This will close the first half with Hopkinsville at Henderson next Tuesday. All of the remaining games—five including to-day's—will be with the same team.

All talk of beating Hopkinsville by any sort of combination is folly. We will quit 100 points ahead of the nearest competitor.

Yon's record is now 14 games won and 2 lost.

Beasley has pitched 3 games and won all.

Beasley, McArthur and Cooper, three of Hopkinsville's best men, are college boys.

Claiborne Beasley, the pitcher, is so pleased with Hopkinsville, that he says he expects to make it his home.

The farmer, who does not disclose his name because he has to depend on Trentonians for his customers, also administered a spanking to the girls. The fair raiders escaped without their identity being discovered, but they created much excitement while running through Morrisville.
